Mass Book page 63

READING I - Dt 4:1-2, 6-8

Moses said to the people: "Now, Israel, hear the statutes and decrees which I am teaching you to observe, that you may live, and may enter in and take possession of the land which the LORD, the God of your fathers, is giving you. In your observance of the commandments of the LORD, your God, which I enjoin upon you, you shall not add to what I command you nor subtract from it. Observe them carefully, for thus will you give evidence of your wisdom and intelligence to the nations, who will hear of all these statutes and say, 'This great nation is truly a wise and intelligent people.' For what great nation is there that has gods so close to it as the LORD, our God, is to us whenever we call upon him? Or what great nation has statutes and decrees that are as just as this whole law which I am setting before you today?"

RESPONSORIAL PSALM: Ps 15:2-3, 3-4, 4-5

R. One who does justice will live in the presence of the Lord.

Whoever walks blamelessly and does justice; who thinks the truth in his heart and slanders not with his tongue.

R. One who does justice will live in the presence of the Lord.

Who harms not his fellow man, nor takes up a reproach against his neighbor; by whom the reprobate is despised, while he honors those who fear the LORD.

R. One who does justice will live in the presence of the Lord.

Who lends not his money at usury and accepts no bribe against the innocent. Whoever does these things shall never be disturbed.

R. One who does justice will live in the presence of the Lord.

READING 2 - Jas 1:17-18, 21b-22, 27

Dearest brothers and sisters: All good giving and every perfect gift is from above, coming down from the Father of lights, with whom there is no alteration or shadow caused by change. He willed to give us birth by the word of truth that we may be a kind of firstfruits of his creatures.

Humbly welcome the word that has been planted in you and is able to save your souls.

Be doers of the word and not hearers only, deluding yourselves.

Religion that is pure and undefiled before God and the Father is this: to care for orphans and widows in their affliction and to keep oneself unstained by the world.

Priest/Lector: Alleluia, Alleluia, Alleluia

R: Alleluia, Alleluia, Alleluia. Verse.

GOSPEL - Mark 7:1-8, 14-15, 21-23

When the Pharisees with some scribes who had come from Jerusalem gathered around Jesus, they observed that some of his disciples ate their meals with unclean, that is, unwashed, hands.--For the Pharisees and, in fact, all Jews, do not eat without carefully washing their hands, keeping the tradition of the elders. And on coming from the marketplace they do not eat without purifying themselves. And there are many other things that they have traditionally observed, the purification of cups and jugs and kettles and beds. --So the Pharisees and scribes questioned him, "Why do your disciples not follow the tradition of the elders but instead eat a meal with unclean hands?" He responded, "Well did Isaiah prophesy about you hypocrites, as it is written: This people honors me with their lips, but their hearts are far from me; in vain do they worship me, teaching as doctrines human precepts. You disregard God's commandment but cling to human tradition."

He summoned the crowd again and said to them, "Hear me, all of you, and understand.

Nothing that enters one from outside can defile that person; but the things that come out from within are what defile.

"From within people, from their hearts, come evil thoughts, unchastity, theft, murder, adultery, greed, malice, deceit, licentiousness, envy, blasphemy, arrogance, folly. All these evils come from within and they defile." This is the gospel of the Lord.

R/: Praise be to you, Lord Jesus Christ.

THE BIRTH OF MARY, September 8

Along with the birth of Jesus and St. John the Baptist, Mary's birth has been celebrated by the Church from early times. In fourth-century Jerusalem a feast of her birth was celebrated at the Church of St. Ann, probably inspiring the Church of Rome also to celebrate too, this event. Mary's birth is seen always as part of God's plan for the salvation of the world through Jesus Christ.

O Mary, you are blessed, for the mysteries of the prophets are fulfilled in you. You were in the burning bush and in the cloud that Moses saw; You were on the ladder rising up to heaven that Ezechiel saw; You were in the ark of the covenant, that David saw. At your birth these mysteries are fulfilled. Glory to the Father, who sent his only Son through you.

Adapted from an early Syrian text.

A reflection of faith and wisdom... HEALING LETTERS

When you write a very angry letter to a friend who has hurt you deeply, don't send it! Let the letter sit on your table for a few days and read it over a number of times. Then ask yourself; "Will this letter bring life to me and my friend? Will it bring healing, will it bring a blessing?" You don't have to ignore-the fact that you are deeply hurt. You don't have to hide from your friend that you feel offended. But you can respond in a way that makes healing and forgiveness possible and opens the door for new life. Rewrite the letter if you think it does not bring life, and send it with a prayer for your friend.

FROM THE HEART - Helen Steiner Rice THE POWER OF PRAYER

Teach us, dear God, that the power of prayer is made stronger by placing the world in Your care! "When a man's ways are pleasing to the Lord, he makes even his enemies live at peace with him." —Proverbs 16:7

Today diminish doubt and increase your faith!

LABOR DAY!

Tomorrow, Monday, September 3rd, this holiday is in honor of labor. Our summer season comes to a close... schools open again! Drive extra carefully!

WORK?

DOES IT REALLY DO US ANY GOOD?

For so many people, Labor Day in America is many things; the official end of summer... a big sale... family reunion picnic - but a day to celebrate work as holy? Not exactly. Take this basic evaluation of work: work as dignity, work as something holy, work as the continuation of God's creation. There is a long-accepted distortion of work as a punishment for the sin of Adam and Eve. But more correctly in thought, though Adam and Eve lived in harmony with God, their daily lives were filled with joyful, effective work - food gathering, meals, learning, growing in relationships, trying to increase their knowledge of God and the world around them. All of these activities are works we are familiar with today. What we've lost is the revelation found in the Book of Genesis. God worked. The first worker so to speak. "God looked at everything he had made," we read in Genesis, "and he found it good." (Genesis 1:31) Work is good; creation itself is "very good." In the New Testament, Jesus was Known as the son of Joseph the Carpenter. A son always followed in his father's footsteps, so Jesus was a trained carpenter, a worker. In his public ministry, as a teacher and Messiah, Jesus taught with parables and stories -always filled with people at work; homemakers sweeping floors to seek a lost coin... laborers in the field... managers who pay the wages... tax collectors. The Lord knew about work. His stories reached people, then and now, because work is common to the whole human family. God's holy work of creation continues through us. Our work is important and it is holy. So this Labor Day, instead of concentrating on the latest "sales" and stressful road trips, how appropriate it is to go to Mass and receive the very Lord of Creation and Work. If at all possible, take a few moments to reflect, to invite God's light on our own work, and God's grace as we try to take our place in creation.
